DROPPED FROM SERVICE AFTER
17 LOYAL YEARS

Bureau Worker, Let Out in Upheaval, Sighs for Little Brick Home He May Lose.

Out on Morton street at the end of the 500 block is a row of new houses. Such a row of homey dwellings as Sunday afternoon strollers like to look at in passing. The newness of the bricks, the freshly painted window frames, the green front lawns, all testify to recent construction. This row of two-story red bricks contrast and stand off from the older houses on the block, some of them frame.

Over the front of No. 518, a red rose rambling vine is growing. Tiny sprouts of grass testify to a healthy "coming" spring lawn.

This is the home of P. J. Farrell, one of the twenty-nine dismissed executives of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. He had hoped to live in comfort here in his old days, with his wife and five children.

Even Loses Pension.
After seventeen years in the Government service, here, this

BAND CONCERT

BY ARMY MUSIC SCHOOL BAND, Complimentary to Student Officers of the Army War College, at the Bandstand, Washington Barracks, D. C., today at 4 p. m.

March, "From Tropic to Tropic," (Performed by John P. White) Overture, "Ruy Blas," Mendelssohn Excerpts from "Robin Hood," De Koven

Cornet solo, "Serenade," Schubert (Performed by John P. White) Grand selection, "Samson and Delilah," Saint Saens Finale, "Marines," W. C. White Conducted by W. J. Stannard, Band leader.

The Army Music School intends giving weekly outdoor concerts at the Washington Barracks, every Friday afternoon, weather permitting. This is the first concert announced for the series.

home represents what he had done for his family and all that his small salary as one of Uncle Sam's employee's had enabled him to do. He had hoped to retire at the age of sixty-five and live here in comfort the rest of his life on the pension the Government allows its superannuated clerks.

But on April 1 Farrell received notice of his dismissal. He was laid off. After working for Uncle Sam for over seventeen years, he found himself not only without a job, but cut off from the pension. Fifty-five years old, he was only five years from the goal to which all Government clerks strive, he figured.

Farrell was employed as superintendent of the building and cleaners division of the Bureau at the time of the upheaval. Previous to this work he had been employed in the Treasury as foreman of labor. He had worked his way up from a watchman at the Treasury, getting $40 a month, to a position of achievement and one to be proud of, he believes. He thinks the curt dismissal of the Government a poor return for his conscientious labors. His deepest sorrow is naturally for his wife and five children, who are dependent on him, he says. The oldest is a girl of fifteen. The others are Madeline, thirteen years old; Eva Elizabeth, eleven; Agnes Marie, nine, and Joseph Francis, four years.

Seeks Work Unsuccessfully.
It looks very much to Farrell as if he will have to give up that attractive little home. He hopes for reinstatement in the Treasury Department, from which he was transferred to the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. It is a forlorn hope, it would seem. So far he has been unable to see anyone, although he has visited there daily.

To the outsider "the home of unemployment" means little more than a man around the house with nothing to do. That is only part of it according to Mrs. P. J. Farrell, his wife.

"These are hard times," she said when seen by a Times reporter. "Every day my husband goes out to look for a job of some kind and every day he comes back without it. I worry, naturally, but I have great faith in my husband's ability and believe he will be able to find work."

Farrell saw service in the Spanish-American War. He has been a pensioned soldier of the Government for eighteen years, receiving $10 a month.

These trophies were won by the company at the annual rifle range competition at Glenburnie, Md., last summer.

The various trophies will be on display in Waldman's drug store here until the night of presentation.

The ladies' auxiliary of Company F is in charge of the serving of the banquet.

Fortune of Siamese Twins Shrinks to $8,000.

CHICAGO, April 7.—First estimates of $200,000 as the value of the estate left by Rosa and Josefa Blazek, the Czech-Slovak twins, have dwindled to $8,000 in American money and a farm of doubtful value in Czechoslovakia.

What has become of the remainder of their fortune, accumulated during their thirty-five years of exhibitions in the leading amusement resorts of Europe and this country, remains a mystery. Their earning capacity, even before the world war, averaged $12,000 a year, exclusive of their living expenses.

The failure of the twins to leave a will has left the disposition of the estate still unsolved. Frank Blazek, their brother, and other relatives, decline to make any comment. Medical opinion regarding the relation of Franz, the eleven-year-old son of Rosa, to both women, remains so divided that it seems improbable he will be legally adjudged the sole heir.

VA. AUTHORITIES
SPREAD NET FOR
'REDS' JACKSON

Believe He Knows More of Assault on Miss Hawken Than He Has Told.

Convinced that Richard "Reds" Jackson, thirty-year-old negro held at the Seventh Precinct, knows more about the criminal assault several weeks ago on Miss Agnes M. Hawken, of Jackson, Va., that he has divulged, Virginia authorities today are taking steps to have the colored man removed to the jail at Fairfax, Va.

Wilson M. Farr, assistant Commonwealth attorney of Fairfax county, has notified Inspector Clifford L. Grant, chief of detectives, that he is seeking to have the negro extradited. It is expected that Attorney Farr will formally charge Jackson with the crime.

Conflicting statements as to his whereabouts on March 23, the day Miss Hawken was attacked, and brutally assaulted when she went to her barn to feed a horse and cow, have been made by Jackson. Efforts to substantiate the negro's statement that he was in Baltimore on this date have thus far failed.

Two men, one white and one colored, both living near Miss Hawken's home have told the authorities that they saw Jackson near Miss Hawken's house on the afternoon of the crime. Both of the men declare they know the negro.

The finding of a shovel in the barn is another bit of evidence considered important. Investigation disclosed that this shovel was stolen from the tool box of a road gang, working within several miles of Jackson station. Jackson worked for this road gang and the authorities are endeavoring to prove that he stole the shovel.

Jackson's statement that he threw away a pair of shoes in Virginia woods has been discredited by the finding of these shoes in the home of his brother, 1623 O street northwest.

Attorney Farr declares that all of the evidence points to Jackson as the assailant of Miss Hawken. It is said that Miss Hawken, who confronted the negro last week, said he resembled the man who attacked her.

If Jackson is taken to Fairfax it will be six weeks before he can be tried, Attorney Farr said. Court opens in Fairfax on the third Monday in May.

Jackson continues to deny any connection with the crime. He is now being held in the Seventh precinct on a charge of housebreaking.

POLITICS BEGIN TO SPUTTER IN ARLINGTON CO.

W. L. Bragg Urged to Run for Delegate—He Is Receptive.

CLARENDON, Va., April 7.—Arlington county's political pot has begun to boil with the signing of the bill by Governor E. Lee Trinkle which makes the county a separate district. In the past Arlington county and the city of Alexandria have elected a delegate, but this year the county will have a separate representative as will Alexandria.

Probably the most prominently mentioned candidate for the house of delegates is W. L. Bragg, of Spruce street. Many citizens have urged Bragg to announce himself as an aspirant for the office, but as yet he has given no definite assurance that he will be a candidate.

During the campaign of Governor Trinkle against Col. Henry W. Anderson last fall Bragg was prominently identified with the Trinkle forces and did much to line up the solid vote cast for the present governor in this section. Bragg also was president of the Arlington Democratic Club last year.

"It is true that I have been approached by many friends and asked to make the race for the house of delegates," Bragg said. "Naturally, I am very much gratified to think that so many should seek me out for this honor."

"I am thinking the matter over seriously and, of course, if there is a solid demand that I become a candidate I will gladly accede. I always have had the best interests of the Democratic party at heart and still have and if the citizens of Arlington county believe I can serve them they can count on me to the limit. I will definitely announce whether or not I will run probably within a week or two."

DEMOCRATS PLEAD FOR HARMONY IN OKLAHOMA

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., April 7.—A plea for party unity and harmony by Cordell Hull, chairman of the Democratic national committee, and an address by Gov. J. B. A. Robertson, in which the executive referred to "lack of harmony" in the party in Oklahoma, and defended his administration and appointees, marked the meeting here yesterday of the Democratic State central committee.

Chairman Hull explained that his visit was to bring about a better understanding and cohesion between the national and State organizations, and asserted that the Democratic outlook is "splendid."
